Call for Papers

Invited Session on AIoT Technology and Applications

Organizers: Prof. Tien-Wen Sung, Prof. Liang-Cheng Shiu, and Prof. Chao-Yang Lee

Artificial Intelligence of Things (AIoT) has become a hot topic that combines two of the hottest acronyms, AI (Artificial Intelligence) and IoT (Internet of Things). IoT consists of interconnected things with built-in sensors and has the potential to generate or collect a vast amount of data. Individual IoT systems can be integrated into a large-scale system for various modern applications. With that comes a lot of collected or real-time data, an intelligent and efficient data processing is essential to make effective use of the information generated from these data. The data can be analyzed and utilized with AI for problem-solving or decision-making. Without AI, IoT would have limited value. AI can multiply the value of IoT; conversely, IoT can promote the learning and intelligence of AI. This invited session discusses recent advances in AIoT technology and applications. Submissions of high-quality papers describing mature results or on-going work are invited.

Topics of interest include but are not limited to the following:

1. AIoT for smart city and city brain
2. Wireless sensor networks for AIoT
3. Machine learning and deep learning for AIoT
4. Cloud, edge, fog, and dew computing for AIoT
5. Telecommunication and network technology for AIoT
6. Mobile computing and Location-Based Services (LBS) for AIoT
7. Security and privacy in AIoT
8. AIoT-based innovative applications and services
